Estimating a Fee.

"That man accuses you of being the greatest grafter on earth."
"Yes," replied Senator Sorghum, "but he doesn't mean it. If he believed I was the greatest grafter on earth he'd be right with me in every campaign, trying to get me and make himself useful."—Washington Star.

Speed.

The Stranger—Why are you driving the car so fast?
The American—To get to the ferry. Later, at the ferry:
The American—We have 20 minutes to spare.
The Stranger—I knew it. In this country you will race the car, burn up gasoline, imperil lives, run the chance of being arrested and kill a chicken to gain 20 minutes for which you have no use when you get them.—Life.

Days at Home.

"I wish a doorman," announced Mrs. De Style.
"Here is a very nice pattern," said the salesman, "with the word 'Welcome' woven into the fiber."
"I see. I suppose that will do if you can add the words 'Tuesdays and Fridays.'"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Delayed.

"Henry," said his wife reproachfully, "do you know that it was 2 o'clock when you came home this morning?"
"You are mistaken, my dear," he replied. "It was just half past 1. I looked at the clock on the church tower as I passed the corner."
"Far be it from me to doubt your word, Henry," answered his wife, "but if that is the case it must have taken you an hour and a half to open the front door."
Too Smart.
Willie—Pa, do you know everything?
Pa—Yes, my son. Why do you ask?
Willie—Why, I wanted to find out why it is that the heavy end of a match is the "light" end.
Pa—You go and take a walk, young man; you are getting too smart.

A Dialect.

"That man observes all the rules of grammar, and never uses slang," said one girl.
"Yes," replied the other, "hasn't he got the regular Boston dialect?"—Washington Star.

Complete Circle.

"I got an umbrella back the other day."
"How was that?"
"I borrowed it from a man who borrowed it from the man who borrowed it from me."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Very Often.

"X is an unknown quantity, isn't it, mamma?"
"It is to your father when I ask him to give me one."—Baltimore American.

Not Baby's Color.

"I was rather surprised when the doctor told me not to give baby any blue milk."
"Why?"
"Of course, baby is a brunette, and blue is not her color. But I didn't suppose that musty old doctors knew about such things."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Very Often.

"I see where they have been fighting near the site of the Garden of Eden."
"Well, why not? Isn't that where all the trouble started?"—Baltimore American.

Huge Sums Spent for Cheating Gum.

Washington, D. C.—The chewing gum habit has cost the American people for chicle alone nearly $25,000,000 in the last ten years, or almost five times as much as we paid Russia for Alaska, according to figures furnished by the Bureau of Forestry and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce. Normally our annual imports of chicle amount to 7,000,000 pounds, for which we pay about $2,500,000 in the countries of origin, and the balance is added to customs duties in our own ports of about $750,000. Imports of chicle gum during the fiscal year 1915 were as follows: From Mexico, 2,197,000 pounds; from Canada, 2,181,000 pounds; from British Honduras, 1,123,000 pounds; from Venezuela, $52,000 pounds; from the Central American republics, 35,000 pounds; from all other countries, 5,000 pounds. Chicle is not produced in Canada, but large quantities from other British possessions are landed through the Dominion. In 1913 the total imports of the gum amounted to 12,758,000 pounds, and that is the record importation for any one year. In 1915 the total was 6,500,000 pounds. Chicle is the dried milky juice of the sapodilla tree, which is one of a large family of tropical trees known as holly-trees. Some of the gum is used as a substitute for gutta serena, but the bulk of it is used in the manufacture of chewing gum.

Save Money on Your Stump Blasting—

The explosives that get stumps out cleanest and cheapest are those that have a heaving and lifting effect, shattering the stumps just enough to break them up. Then you can handle them easily.

"The farmer," says an Experiment Station, "should use an explosive that stands all ordinary shocks of handling and does not easily freeze. He does not need the expensive nitroglycerine explosives." Thousands use and save money because they go further than others. They are made especially to suit Western farm conditions.

Giant Farm Powders—the product of the oldest manufacturer of high explosives in the United States—are the only genuine "giant powders" for agricultural use. They are made in two brands—Giant Stumping Powder, ideal for blasting in wet ground; and Eureka Stumping Powder, the money-saving, low-freezing explosive for blasting stumps in dry soil.

Ask your dealer for Giant Powders and blasting supplies. If he does not have them we shall see that you are supplied.

Made Him Nervous.

A crowd of dirty-faced urchins were playing dangerously near the edge of a Providence pier. Suddenly an old man, who had been a fidgety onlooker from the cabin of his boat, emerged from his favorite post and proceeded to soundly thrash one of the lads in question.

Some passer-by, surprised by his actions, stopped to question the old man thereon.

"Wal, I'll tell ya," said the old fellow as he regretfully ceased his hold on the lad's collar. "Tain't as I care a hang whether they fall in or whether they don't, but it's the dang'd uncertainty about it that I can't stand."—Judge.

Spring Plowing is Delayed.

Baker, Or.—While farmers are thankful that the return of winter this week has checked the possibilities of floods injuring the fields, it has set back spring plowing. Farmers had just started to break ground, with the hopes of an extra long season, when the snow and cold stopped work. With the prospect of a long season and an unusual amount of water for irrigation, much new land is to be broken and bumper crops of all kinds are expected in the Snake River country, where the season is already well advanced.

Cascara Bark is Steady in East.

Portland—Cascara bark in the East is meeting with a moderate demand and prices are steady there, as here. Mail advices from London say of Cascara: "Firmness is the continued feature of the market, and our American friends may spring a surprise upon us a little later on. Bright this 1913 '60s spot. New bark is selling at 56c." These prices are equal to 12¢ cents for old and 11¢ cents for new at London. The wide range between London and American prices is due to high freight rates and scarcity of bark in England.

Bulk Grain Handling Discussed.

Dayton, Wash.—At the tri-county meeting of the Farmers' Union of the counties of Walla Walla, Columbia and Garfield, the subject of handling the grain this year was discussed. The price of sacks is practically prohibitive, so it is quite probable that many grain tanks will be erected preparatory to handling the crop in bulk.

U. S. Troopers, Under Colonel Dodd, Attack 500 Bandits.

El Paso—Four hundred American cavalrymen, under the command of Colonel George A. Dodd, whirling down from the granite slopes of the great continental divide, have fallen like a thunderbolt on the main body of Francisco Villa's bandits at the San Geronimo ranch, scattering them like chaff in the wind, and driving the bandit chief, wounded and crippled, to seek a hiding place in the mountains over which he has ruled for so many years. Villa was hurried from danger in a carriage.

The battle opened at 6 o'clock in the morning of March 29.

The news of the brilliant exploit of the American troopers was flashed over the Mexican wires into Juarez Saturday and sent a thrill along the border. For 17 hours the veteran Colonel Dodd and his picked riders of the Seventh and Tenth Cavalry drove down the valley of the Santa Maria river. At the end of a 25-mile ride they burst upon the unsuspecting camp where 500 bandits were celebrating the massacre of 172 Carranza soldiers two days previously at Guerrero.

Villa, shot through the leg and with one hip shattered, was hurried from the scene barely in time to escape the onslaught of the soldiers of the North.

The bandits made a brief but hopeless stand before the fierce charge of Colonel Dodd and his troopers. They broke and fled, leaving 31 dead on the field, including their commander, General Eliseo Hernandez. Two machine guns, several horses, rifles, ammunition and equipment fell into the hands of the victors.

Among the known wounded is Pablo Lopez, Villa lieutenant in the Columbus raid. The American casualties were four privates wounded.

The American soldiers did not linger on the field of victory. For five hours they drove the enemy before them into the wilderness of mountain peak, desert and canyon, where roads, or even trails, are unknown and where a mistake means death to horse and rider. They halted only after the chase had led them ten miles from the battlefield and the fugitives were scattered far and wide in little bands of half a dozen men each.

Villa's career has ended. His power has been broken. His death or capture is a question only of days, perhaps only hours. Such is the inevitable conclusion reached here as little by little the details of "Dodd's ride" seep across the border. It seems impossible that the crippled, defeated bandit can remain hidden long even in the mountainous wastes in which he has sought refuge.

The scene of Colonel Dodd's victory is a broad valley lying at the head of the Rio Santa Maria. On the west there are barren foothills of the continental divide and to the east is a trail, made famous by Villa, which leads through the Laguna de Castilla district to the ill-fated Santa Ysabel. It was at the latter place that Villa killed 18 American mining men, a crime which sent a thrill of horror throughout the United States and which has not yet faded from the memory of the end of his blood-stained career. It was toward Santa Ysabel that he was believed to have been heading when the troopers of the United States swept down from the North on his camp.

From the meagre details which have reached here from Mexican and American military sources, it appears that Colonel Dodd's men made their way unnoted through the arroyos, or deep gulches, which split the foothills in all directions, and were almost in the camp before the alarm was given.
